

Overview

The new widget expands CINC's Follow Up Boss integration, giving mutual clients a more connected way to generate, engage, nurture, and convert online opportunities.

The existing two-way API integration brings valuable CINC lead intelligence into Follow Up Boss, while the new widget adds powerful search-management tools and AI controls directly within the CRM.

MAIN MESSAGE

For clients who use Follow Up Boss, CINC provides the website, lead generation, consumer engagement, lead intelligence, and AI nurture while Follow Up Boss provides the CRM workflow. Together, the integration makes it easier for agents to access and act on CINC lead intelligence without switching between systems.

Why It Matters

Many real estate teams use Follow Up Boss as their CRM but still need a solution for websites, lead generation, consumer engagement, and long-term nurture.

The expanded integration makes it easier for teams to leverage CINC's high-quality lead generation, RealVerified Leads, consumer behavioral intelligence, and AI-powered nurture without requiring agents to constantly move between systems.

For team leaders, that means less training, faster adoption, and a simpler technology stack. Agents can continue working inside Follow Up Boss while still benefiting from the capabilities that make CINC leads so valuable.

For agents, it means less time learning multiple systems and more time engaging consumers. The lead data they need is available inside Follow Up Boss, while saved searches, listing alerts, MLS search, and AI handoffs can be managed from the same workflow.

Ultimately, the integration positions CINC as the ideal lead generation and consumer engagement platform for Follow Up Boss users, giving teams access to high-quality opportunities and sophisticated nurture capabilities without disrupting the way they already work.

Key Benefits for Clients

Pair Follow Up Boss with a complete lead generation ecosystem

CINC provides hyper-local lead generation, powerful IDX websites, consumer behavioral intelligence, RealVerified Leads, and AI-powered nurture that complement the Follow Up Boss workflow.

Access valuable lead intelligence inside Follow Up Boss

Through the existing integration, agents can view consumer activity, engagement history, AI conversations, notes, dispositions, and other behavioral signals without leaving Follow Up Boss.

Manage saved searches without leaving Follow Up Boss

The new widget lets agents view and update saved searches, adjust search criteria, refine map-based search areas, review matching properties, and search MLS inventory directly from the lead profile.

Keep buyers engaged longer

Agents can quickly update listing alerts as buyer preferences evolve, helping consumers continue receiving relevant inventory and return to the website throughout their search journey.

Create cleaner AI-to-agent handoffs

Agents can review AI conversations and mute CINC AI when they are ready to personally manage the relationship.

Reduce friction for agents

Less platform switching means agents spend more time engaging consumers and less time navigating technology.

What the Existing Integration Provides

The two-way API integration keeps lead data in sync and surfaces CINC lead intelligence inside Follow Up Boss.

CINC → Follow Up Boss	Follow Up Boss → CINC
• Lead contact data & registration • Assigned agents • CINC labels mapped to Follow Up Boss tags • Property views • AI conversations • Property inquiries & showing requests (as FUB notifications) • Notes	• Tags applied to leads • Contact information updates • Assigned agent

How to Activate the Integration

For clients already using both CINC and Follow Up Boss, activation is quick and straightforward.

1. Ensure the CINC ↔ Follow Up Boss integration is enabled

- The client should already have the existing CINC two-way integration configured. If not, see the section below.
- This integration provides lead synchronization and lead intelligence inside Follow Up Boss.

2. Activate the CINC Widget

- In Follow Up Boss, navigate to Admin > Integrations.
- Locate the CINC Widget in the available embedded integrations.
- Install and enable the widget.

3. Start using the new capabilities

- View and manage CINC saved searches directly from the Follow Up Boss lead profile.
- Edit advanced search criteria and map-based search areas.
- Search MLS listings and share listings with leads.
- Mute CINC AI conversations when taking over communication.

No additional agent training on CINC is required to take advantage of these workflow improvements.

If the Client Is Not Yet Using the Integration

If a client uses both CINC and Follow Up Boss but has not connected the platforms, the Client Advisor or Support team can help them enable the existing CINC integration before installing the widget.

This can also be done through the new self-service module, which requires an admin user in Follow Up Boss to:

- Create a CINC API key in Follow Up Boss from Admin > More > API Settings (they must have an Owner role).
- Copy the API key, then open the CINC CRM and go to Settings > Profile > Integrations.

- Paste the API key into the field and click Connect to enable the connection (must have Broker role permissions).

New self-serve activation lives on the CINC Integrations page.

Positioning & Talk Track

POSITIONING TIP

Don't lead with "We have a widget."

Lead with: "We can now make CINC work much more seamlessly with Follow Up Boss. Once the integration is enabled, your agents can access CINC lead activity and manage saved searches directly from inside Follow Up Boss." This keeps the conversation focused on the business outcome rather than the technology.

SUGGESTED CLIENT TALK TRACK

If you're using both CINC and Follow Up Boss, this integration helps bring the two experiences together. Your agents can see what they need to know about CINC leads inside Follow Up Boss, while also managing saved searches, updating listing alerts, sharing properties, and monitoring AI conversations.

Example Scenario

HOW IT PLAYS OUT

A buyer registers on a CINC website, views several homes, saves properties, and has conversations with CINC AI. The agent can already see that engagement history through the integration. Later, the buyer reveals new preferences during a conversation. Using the widget, the agent can immediately update the saved search, refine map boundaries, adjust listing alerts, and share relevant properties, all without leaving Follow Up Boss.

Client Advisor Questions to Ask

- Are your agents primarily working from Follow Up Boss?
- If so, it's a no-brainer to activate the API integration and CINC widget in Follow Up Boss.

Important Notes

- ✓ This is valuable for teams using both CINC and Follow Up Boss.
- ✓ The existing integration and the new widget work together.
- ✓ The widget does not replace the integration, it expands it.

Frequently Asked Questions

Do clients still need CINC if they use Follow Up Boss?

- Yes. Follow Up Boss is the CRM where many teams manage their day-to-day workflow. CINC provides the websites, lead generation, consumer engagement, lead intelligence, behavioral tracking, and AI-powered nurture that create and develop opportunities. The integration brings those capabilities together.

What is actually new?

Many clients are already using CINC's two-way integration with Follow Up Boss to synchronize lead data and surface lead intelligence. The new addition is a Follow Up Boss widget that lets agents:

- View and manage saved searches
- Edit advanced search criteria
- Adjust custom map search areas
- Search MLS listings
- Share listings with consumers
- Mute CINC AI when taking over a conversation

What's the difference between the API integration and the widget?

- The API integration synchronizes lead information and surfaces CINC lead intelligence inside Follow Up Boss, including activity, notes, AI conversations, property engagement, dispositions, and other behavioral signals.
- The widget adds interactive tools that let agents manage the consumer's home search experience directly from Follow Up Boss.

Why is managing saved searches so important?

- Buyer preferences change throughout the home search process. As agents have conversations, or as CINC AI uncovers new information, they often learn about new locations, budgets, home styles, or school preferences. Updating saved searches keeps listing alerts relevant, encourages buyers to return to the website, and creates more opportunities for engagement.

Can agents still use CINC?

- Absolutely. The integration is designed to give clients flexibility. Agents who prefer to use CINC can continue doing so, while teams that primarily work from Follow Up Boss can access more of CINC's capabilities directly from their CRM.

Why is this valuable for team leaders?

- It reduces operational friction. Agents spend less time switching between systems, require less training, and can manage more of the consumer journey from a single workflow while still benefiting from CINC's lead generation and nurture capabilities.

What's the biggest competitive advantage?

- Most competitive integrations with Follow Up Boss just synchronize lead data. Our significant competitors (BoldTrail, Lofty, Sierra, Ylopo) do not offer the additional functionality of managing saved searches directly from the Follow Up Boss lead profile.
